

SPEAKERS LAUD WILSON REGIME

Woman's Democratic League Hears Arguments for Keeping Party in Power.

CLARK CITES PROSPERITY

Room for Only Two Political Parties, Says Speaker of House—Organization Chooses Officers Today.

The unbounded prosperity of the past three years offers an unanswerable argument for the continuance of the Democratic party in power for another term, according to prominent speakers who yesterday addressed the opening session of the fourth annual convention of the Woman's National Democratic League, being held at the New Willard.

Among those who lauded the administration of President Wilson were Speaker Champ Clark, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, A. Caminetti, Commissioner General of Immigration, and Conrad H. Syme, corporation counsel for the District.

"Should Get Credit, anyhow."

"The Democrats will win the coming Presidential election if they are fit to win," said Speaker Clark. "And all circumstances are favorable for victory. The unbounded prosperity of the country should entitle the party to a new lease in office. The biggest crop in the history of the country has just been harvested. The Republicans by their own conversation are estopped from denying that we are entitled to credit for this. I know the Democrats didn't harvest the entire crop, but they ought to get the credit for it, anyhow."

The Republicans are looking upon this era of prosperity as a personal grievance. But the average person of normal intelligence doesn't look at prosperity as a personal grievance; why should he? I take it that the best interests of the country are tied up with the Democratic party.

"I never object to any one taking a part in politics, for politics is business, and everyone should enter business. I am convinced that there is enough politics in the United States. I am glad to see that women are coming into their own."

Syme Favors Suffrage.

Mr. Syme lauded the administration and spoke in favor of woman suffrage. "Women are coming into their own," he said, "because women have a right to it."

Commissioner Caminetti, who spoke on "Some Humanizing Efforts of the Administration," said the Wilson administration had done more than any other administration in the way of introducing humanizing activities into the Federal government's work.

Mrs. William A. Cullup, wife of Representative Cullup, of Indiana, and president of the league, presided. Mrs. Marie Keough, statistician of the sanitary district of Chicago, president of the County Democracy of Chicago, and vice president of the Illinois branch of the Democratic League, spoke in favor of the establishment of a Wilson home guard, a band of women organized to aid in the protection of President Wilson as a guaranty of continued peace and the consequent protection of the home.

Invocation was offered by Rev. George Flake Dudley, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Mrs. D. H. Kinchloe, of Kentucky, gave several piano selections, including an accompaniment, and Irish folk songs were sung by Mrs. Jesse C. Kester, with Miss Florence Trainham as accompanist.

Letters were read from President Wilson and Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall, wife of the Vice President, expressing their regret at being unable to attend. A telegram was read from Mrs. E. J. G. Roundy, vice president of the Utah branch of the league, expressing greetings and nominating Mrs. Woodrow Wilson for the honorary presidency of the organization. Flowers were sent to the convention from the White House and the House of Representatives.

In the afternoon, the out-of-town delegates were guests at a reception given by the Congressional Club. Mrs. Alice Pommeroy, wife of the Secretary of the league, presided. The evening session of the convention this morning will commence at 10:30 o'clock and will be addressed by Senator Phelan, of California, and Secretary of Labor Wilson. Officers will be elected and reports presented.

gates to the congress following their respective Ambassadors. Ministers and charge d'affaires. The other guests were presented in the order in which they arrived.

Mrs. Wilson Beautifully Attired.

The new "first lady," who made her debut to Washington society as the chaperone of the White House, was more beautiful and charming than on any previous occasion when it has been the good fortune of Washington folk to see her. Her gown was a wonderful creation of white and silver brocade, simply made, and following the prevailing fashion. The bodice was softened with tulle and the skirt, short and draped in slightly bouffant fashion, was finished with a single pointelle and a long, graceful court train.

Miss Margaret Wilson, the President's daughter, wore a lovely gown of sapphire blue velvet, embroidered with rhinestones and sapphires. Mrs. McAdoo wore shell pink tulle with bouffant draperies of tulle and a long square train.

Mrs. Cottrill Howe, the President's sister, was handsomely gowned in black satin veiled with black tulle embroidered with sequins. Mrs. Cottrill wore white tulle with rare lace and softened with tulle. Mrs. W. P. Bolling, mother of Mrs. Wilson, wore black tulle over cloth of silver, and Miss White, wife of the Secretary of the Interior, wore a gown of black velvet with an over-dress of shaded tulle. Miss Helen Woodrow Jones was lovely in a gown of canary tulle veiled in gold lace.

Mrs. Lansing in Cloth of Silver.

Mrs. Lansing was in cloth of silver trimmed with delicate silver-lace and tulle. Mrs. Garrison, wife of the Secretary of War, wore black velvet with a long square cascade train. A single flower of black velvet with a deep gold center completed the costume. Mrs. Ernest W. Roberts was gowned in broad cloth blue tulle trimmed with ermine and passementerie, and diamonds.

Gilbert H. Grosvenor, wife of Mr. Grosvenor, of Massachusetts, was accompanied by Mrs. Edwin Grosvenor, of Massachusetts, who was in the Blue Room, wore white tulle trimmed with silver, with a white silk bodice embroidered in silver.

Mrs. Burleson, wife of the Postmaster General, wore blue tulle embroidered with silver. Miss Lucy Burleson was in lavender and yellow tulle and Miss Sidney Burleson wore rose-colored chiffon veiled with tulle. Mrs. Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, wore French tulle of pale orchid color embroidered in silver and trimmed with beaver fur. Miss Mary Cleaves Daniels, niece of the Secretary of the Navy, wore white tulle and chiffon. Miss Evelyn Johnson, cousin of Mrs. Daniels, also wore white tulle and chiffon. Mrs. Lane, wife of the Secretary of the Interior, was in white tulle and chiffon. Mrs. Houston, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, wore gray satin and chiffon. Mrs. Redfield, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, wore white tulle and chiffon. Mrs. Drury, daughter of Mr. Redfield, wore pink silk, trimmed with lace and opals. Miss Drury, of Brooklyn, sister-in-law of Mrs. Drury, who was in the White House, wore white tulle and chiffon. Mrs. Burleson, wife of the Secretary of Labor, wore black chamoise with black and rose chiffon, and Miss Alice Wilson, daughter of the Secretary, was in yellow tulle with roses painted on the bodice, which was of chiffon.

Chilean Envoy Enters First.

Mrs. O'Gorman, wife of the Senator from New York, had with her, her two daughters, Mrs. Dudley Field Malone, of New York, and Miss Alice O'Gorman. Mrs. O'Gorman wore white satin with crystal and silver trimmings. Mrs. Malone was in light blue tulle embroidered in silver, with a bodice of silver lace, and Miss O'Gorman wore blue satin with light blue tulle and a cascade of gold. Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, wife of the Junior Senator from New York, wore black satin and diamonds. Mrs. Perry Belmont, who, with Mr. Belmont, had not been in the White House for many years, wore a beautiful costume of white brocade satin in a pattern of heavy silver, with a long string of pearls. The first to enter the Blue Room was the Chilean Ambassador, Senor Suarez-Majica, president of the second Pan-American Scientific Congress, which closes today. He was accompanied by his wife and the members of his staff. The Chilean Ambassador, Senor Suarez-Majica, followed in their order of precedence. After them came other guests, including the officials and others who have done much to make the congress a memorable one, especially as well as scientifically.

Mrs. Suarez wore pink velvet brocade in silver, over a petticoat of brocade silk which opened over another petticoat of princess lace. She wore a diamond necklace and long earrings. Mme. da Gama, wife of the Brazilian Ambassador, wore a silver and blue brocade veiled with blue tulle, and a superb diamond tiara.

Madame de Pena, wife of the Minister from Uruguay, was in black tulle and tulle. Miss Manuela de Pena wore mid-blue tulle chamoise with black tulle drapery. Miss Albertina de Pena wore a gown of pale blue chiffon trimmed with dainty rosebuds and lace. Miss Carolina de Pena wore black tulle over pink with pink roses and orchids. Madame Escobar, wife of the Minister from Peru, wore pale gray chiffon veiled over cloth of silver and chiffon with a band of fur about the bottom of the full skirt. The bodice was of silver embroidered in rhinestones with touches of green. Miss Teresa Grandia y Paez, niece of the Minister, wore her white brocade with an overdress of net studded with pearls; her ornaments were a diamond necklace and tiara. Mrs. Bella B. Mahan was handsomely gowned in black tulle over electric blue tulle built over a foundation of blue satin; the bodice was of tulle heavily encrusted with blue sequins and there was a deep girdle of sequins with a small effect of tulle caught with tiny rosebuds; she wore pearl ornaments and a corsage bouquet of pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley. Miss Gertrude Thies wore a dainty gown of shell-pink satin veiled in shaded tulle and caught with rosebuds; her corsage flowers were Parma violets.

Mrs. Cole Wears White Lace.

Mrs. E. W. Cole, of Tennessee, wore a handsome gown of white lace over white brocade, with a superb necklace of emeralds and diamonds and a tiara of the same jewels. Miss Dorothy Dennett wore a dainty gown of pale blue panne velvet and tulle; she was accompanied by her guests, Mrs. Wittman, Miss Eleanor O'Connell, and Miss Seal. Mrs. Wittman wore a blue lace gown and a necklace of diamonds. Miss O'Connell was in black tulle with a bodice of emerald green draped in black chiffon and pearls. Miss Seal wore rose tulle trimmed in silver. Mrs. Bankhead, wife of Senator Bankhead, was gowned in black silk and lace. Mrs. Ashurst, wife of Senator Ashurst, wore turquoise satin and tulle. Mrs. Gorgas, wife of Gen. Gorgas, wore a handsome costume of American Beauty tulle over white lace with a long court train of American Beauty velvet.

Mme. Raynaud, wife of the military attaché of the Argentine Embassy, wore a beautiful gown of mauve chamoise with a long train of white tulle finishing the bodice; she wore a handsome pearl necklace. Miss Grynga Raynaud was daintily gowned in white tulle with touches of black on the bodice and girdle.

Mme. Blanche de Barail, of Cuba, wore black lace with a cascade of white tulle over green satin; Miss Blanca Barail wore light blue crepe de chene with overdrapery of white velvet, and Miss Adele de Barail wore a gown of white velvet with a cascade of white tulle over green satin, with garlands of white flowers. Helena Holmberg de Ambrosotti, wife of the delegate from Argentina, wore black velvet, with a necklace of diamonds.

Mrs. Tiller in Old Gold.

Mrs. Theodore Tiller wore a gown of old gold over satin and tulle with a court train of pink panne velvet. Her house guest, Mrs. Philip Clancy, wore beaded chiffon and gold lace.

Mrs. William Atherton DePuy wore a black gown with futuristic trimmings of white velvet and shaded orange tulle draperies.

Mrs. Andrew Jackson Montague, wife of Representative Montague, of Virginia, wore sapphire satin with crystal overdress. Mrs. John W. Thomas, Jr., of Steele, wife of the Representative from Iowa, wore black velvet; Mrs. C. William Ramseyer, wife of Representative Ramseyer, old rose velvet with an overdress of rose tulle; Mrs. Thomas Spencer Crago, wife of Representative Crago, old tulle tulle trimmed with silver lace; Mrs. Martin Andrew Morrison, wife of the Representative from Colorado, wore black velvet with a cascade of white tulle over green satin with sapphire and diamonds; Mrs. Albert Johnson, black panne velvet trimmed in black net; Mrs. Edward Keating, of Colorado, white silk net over black tulle; Mrs. Thomas H. Garner, black lace with iridescent lace overdress; Mrs. A. C. Mrs. Howard Clark, salmon-colored brocade trimmed with Venetian lace; Mrs. George S. Rice, white-beaded chiffon; Mrs. O. P. Hood, white chiffon trimmed with rare Venetian lace and pearls; Mrs. Thomas H. Norton, heliotrope velvet with black net overdress; Mrs. Wallace Dempsey, of New York, black net and pearl ornaments.

FORD PEACE PILGRIMS LEAVE FOR THE HAGUE

Some Members Pass Through Germany and Some Forced to Make Trip by Sea.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald. Copenhagen, Jan. 7.—The Henry Ford Peace Pilgrims left this morning for The Hague, passing through Germany. Several members of the party left the expedition here for good, others going to Holland by sea owing to the fact that they are citizens of countries at war with Germany.

Quarrels between the divided factions were recurrent up to the last minute before the departure of the party.

NEW WARDEN'S JOB HARD.

Has All Sorts of Trouble at His First Sing Sing Killing.

Special to The Washington Herald. Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 7.—The first electrocution at Sing Sing since Acting Warden Kirchwey succeeded Thomas Mott Osborne took place today when Antonio Ponton, a Porto Rican student, was executed for the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Beale Kromer, a school teacher in Schenectady. Strong efforts had been made to save Ponton on grounds of insanity. Dr. Kirchwey did not witness the execution.

At the time of the murder Ponton was a student at the Albany Law School. Ponton's execution was delayed for fifteen minutes by the tempt of an attack threatened by the sudden illness of the electrician, but he was revived by the prison doctor in time to complete his grisly duties.

The convict, who was tried to flee the prison was frustrated by other convict to escape. Another "honor system," which had been installed by Mr. Osborne.

FAIL TO OPPOSE HOSPITAL'S SITE

Park View Citizens Favor Proposed Location for District Institution.

'AD' FAKERS CONDEMNED

Prof. E. J. Ward Urges Use of Schools as Meeting Places for Young Men and Girls.

The Park View Citizens' Association decided last night not to oppose the location of the new Washington Asylum Hospital at Fourteenth and Uptown streets northwest. The Piney Branch Citizens' Association requested the Park View body several months ago to aid in a movement to prevent the erection of the new hospital in that section.

John G. McGrath, president, who was entrusted to investigate the request of the Piney Branch body, reported that since the Tuberculosis Hospital already is located in that vicinity, the surrounding would be improved rather than injured by the erection of another and more modern hospital. The Piney Branch Association will be provided with a copy of Mr. McGrath's report.

The campaign of the Retail Merchants' Association against false advertising was endorsed, and Horace R. George, secretary, was elected to represent the association at the "ad vigilance committee."

The Teachers' Association, requesting that the association take action on the recommendation of the Commissioners for abolition of the present school system, was referred to the executive committee for report at the next meeting.

Discusses Social Centers.

The organization of the public schools of the District into social centers was urged by Prof. Edward J. Ward, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, who addressed the association. Mr. Ward urged the use of the schools not only as meeting places for the citizens, but also as neighborhood amusement places, "where the young men and women can under proper chaperonage, find wholesome entertainment."

Prof. Ward urged the residents to see that their new Park View School, which is in course of construction, is equipped with facilities for social and commercial meetings as well as bare halls for business meetings. He also urged the installation of voting machines in the schools.

Rev. John A. Brashier, of Pittsburgh, discussing the "Educational Value of Endowment for Public Schools" yesterday, told the educational section of the good that has been accomplished by a gift of $350,000 made to the public schools of Pittsburgh in 1906. The sum was given anonymously, said Dr. Brashier, and with the consent of the donor, a commission of citizens was appointed to develop a plan that would give the largest measure of success in the betterment of the schools.

Discussing the benefits to this country and to Latin-America to be derived from the congress, George E. Roberts, formerly director of the mint, now assistant to the president of the National City Bank of New York, said it would be difficult to point to the specific benefits, but there is no doubt the gatherings of a large body of prominent men of the countries of the Western Hemisphere will do much good. He said: "South America has for generations turned its eyes to Europe. The more its people have the opportunity to get acquainted with each other, the better, and it will be helpful all around."

The closing sessions of the Women's Auxiliary Conference at Memorial Continental Hall yesterday was marked by the unexpected presence of Miss Jane Addams. The announcement of the presence of Miss Addams was greeted with a standing ovation from the delegates. The famous peace advocate made a brief address. She said, in part: "Calls Congress Significant."

"Thinking men and women of the country have watched with the keenest interest the work of the congress and its associated conference. It has won unstinted praise as typical of the growing efforts toward the best type of internationalism. And, coming as it has, at this time of strife across the waters, it has been regarded as extremely significant."

Internationalism has been dreamed of in the past as a formal undertaking, to be approached through the medium of solemn resolutions. Today we approach it in a more empiric and pragmatic manner through the medium of affection, good will and respect between our neighbors and ourselves."

Mrs. Lansing, chairman of the conference announced the recommendations of the executive committee, which are as follows: The publication in Spanish, Portuguese, and English of the accomplishments of the conference; the establishing of an informal international committee for the distributing of this publication and to act in the event of a desire to make the holding of the conference a permanent feature, and the appointment of a secretary as a medium whereby the women of the three Americas might keep in close touch with each other.

Tributes Are Paid.

Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, chairman of yesterday's session, closed the conference with a graceful tribute to the interest and work of Mrs. Charles R. Crane, originator of the idea of holding the conference; Mrs. Robert Lansing, chairman; Mrs. G. L. Swiggett, organizing secretary, and Mme. Blanche Z. Barail, whose translation of certain addresses made at the sessions has been such an addition to the interest of the program to the Spanish-speaking delegates.

Mrs. Louis F. Post gave an interesting discussion on "Advancing Ideal for the Home." Senora Carmen Torres Calderon, of Manila, spoke on the "Psychology of the Latin-American Woman." The relation of the Nineteenth Century House-
